A Super-Fun Guide to Enjoying a Weekend in Barcelona

Lyona returns, this time to introduce us to her most endearing and mischievous character: Alyona.

This is the first book about the artist's best-known character, a girl free of any limits or complexes.

Alyona is the voice you hear in your head, the one you always try to quiet. The one that says things you wouldn't even dare to think.

Alyona doesn't fit in this world. Reality bores her so she makes things up.

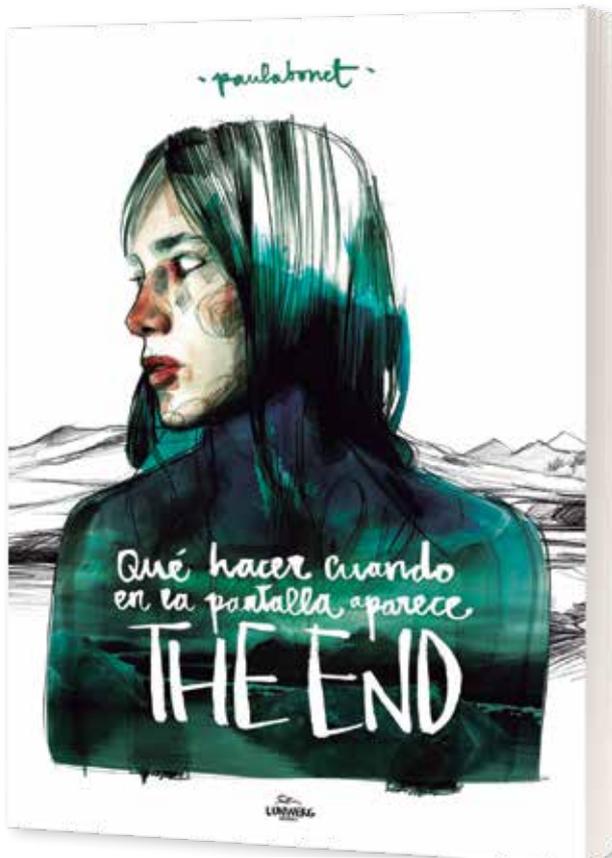

LUNWERG | 17 x 19,5 CM | 120 PAGES | MAY 2016

Lyona is a famous multidisciplinary artist, best-known as a director of videos for bands and singers.

In the world of publishing she is the illustrator of the bestseller Yo mataré monstruos por ti by Santi Balmes; the microstories gathered in La vida es corta y luego te mueres by Enric Pardo, and Mis primeros primeros besos.

Alyona nació como mi alter ego un domingo de resaca. La resaca pasó pero Alyona se quedó y llegó a tener su propio ego. Tanto... que ahora tengo que deconstruirla para entenderla.

"It will capture you. It will surprise you. It will seduce you."

A book about unexpected endings, the kind that tear us in two, linger on for years and maybe longer because we're confusing pride with nostalgia. Living with our eyes glued to the screen waiting for the next move, the one that will finally present us with the ending that we've been seeking. But that ending never comes. And suddenly one day we wake up and feel the void: THE END is up there on the screen and we have to embark upon another story.

LUNWERG | 20 x 28 CM | 200 PAGES | MARCH 2014

For all those who got to the end of the book wanting more,
this kit features unpublished material

Now you can explore the author's creative process and learn about the talent and sensibility of one of the most popular artists in Spain: Paula Bonet.

This kit is the perfect gift for the artist's fans. The pack includes:

- One box designed by Paula Bonet for you to keep whatever you want inside.
- One copy of the book What to do When The End Appears on the Screen.
- One folder.

After the biggest illustration phenomenon of 2015, Everything I Never Told You is Here, Sara Herranz presents a beautiful kit to help you through your break-ups

A tour through the world of emotions, everything from falling in love to heartbreak. It begins with a dramatic break-up that smashes your hopes into a thousand pieces, followed by a little sex, partying and alcohol to help you forget. And then you fall in love again, maybe this time it'll be the real thing.

This kit contains:

- A copy of Everything I Never Told You is Here
- A cloth bag
- An envelope containing 3 prints of unpublished illustrations

LUNWERG | 166 PAGES | NOVEMBER 2015

The work of Sara Herranz is sassy, sensitive and terribly honest. Her minimalist, naive style is peppered with short, sweet and cynical texts that speak directly to the reader.

Have you ever wondered what cats would say if they could talk? Catsass is here to tell you. And it hurts.

Clarilou's illustrations are sweet, humorous shots of life as a woman in the 21st Century.

- Let anyone who hasn't done one of the following cast the first stone:
- Turned your closet upside down on a Saturday night because you have nothing to wear.
 - Looked yourself up on Google.
 - Postponed a diet 'until next Monday'.
 - Sought out an ex to show them how well you've got over the break-up.
 - Gone to a sale intending to buy a few basics and ended up leaving more weighed down with bags than Julia Roberts in Pretty Woman.
 - Made yourself miserable trying to replicate the healthy lifestyle you see on fitness blogs.
- The author can identify with all this and she skewers these situations and more until we're laughing our heads off. Love, fashion, diets, studying and work, life 2.0... nothing escapes the illustration talents of Clarilou.

The thirties aren't the new twenties... they're much better than that!

As fun as one's twenties might be, the truth is that you haven't yet fully developed. But once you've turned thirty, everything becomes much clearer. One really matures when they're in their thirties: you need to get a steady job (whether or not you like it is beside the point), a mortgage, start a family, buy a bigger car... sounds dull, doesn't it? Following the general pattern is one option, but there is another less mainstream one that might be a little less mature but nonetheless has plenty of advantages. In that alternative life, the work might not be so steady but you'll almost certainly find it more fulfilling. Your thirties can be just as fun as your twenties, does the voice in your head sound old? Of course it doesn't! It sounds like that of a thirtynager.

Mr. Wonderful is a fun graphic design studio but really it's much more than that: it's a philosophy of life.

Anna Llenas titles have been translated into several languages

A journey through our emotions via Anna Llenas' original illustrations.

Your soul has as many different faces, thoughts and feelings as it does states of being. They can be alive and luminous but also extremely dark. There are some that infuse you with determination and energy while others somehow take it away...

This book invites you to experience all these states on a journey through yourself; your emotions, thoughts and feelings, following the path of the labyrinth. A path that is as complex as it is exciting; unpredictable, but sure to be full of adventure, emotion and imagination.

CROSS BOOKS | 26,5 x 31 CM | 128 PAGES | FEBRUARY 2016

Anna Llenas spent the first years of her career working as a designer and art director. One day, however, she decided to give up the world of advertising and embark upon a new, more personal and artistic path. Since then, she has designed original products, written and illustrated books, and given courses in emotional management and creativity.

Even if you're born in the wrong time and place, even if you're different from the rest, never stop trying to find your path to happiness.

Alex is a successful artist who does important work for the world of fashion and advertising, but... Who is he really? Where did he come from? How did he get to become a recognized artist and make a living from it? This book is Alex's story, but it could be that of many other kids who don't seem to fit in. 'Different' people looking for a way to survive in a hostile environment, and trying to hatch a plan to escape... who in spite of all the difficulties, pitfalls and blows continue to cling on to life in all its facets; good and bad, beautiful and grotesque, great and insignificant.

LUNWERG | 17 x 23 CM | 176 PAGES | MAY 2016

Alex de Marcos, creator of Mundopiruuu, was born in Madrid on the Halloween of 1985.

He has "written drawings" since he was young and sketched monkeys in the margins of his schoolbooks. He works in every aspect of illustration: from publishing to advertising, at agencies from across the world.

A book to scribble in, fill out and colour... that will change your outlook on life.

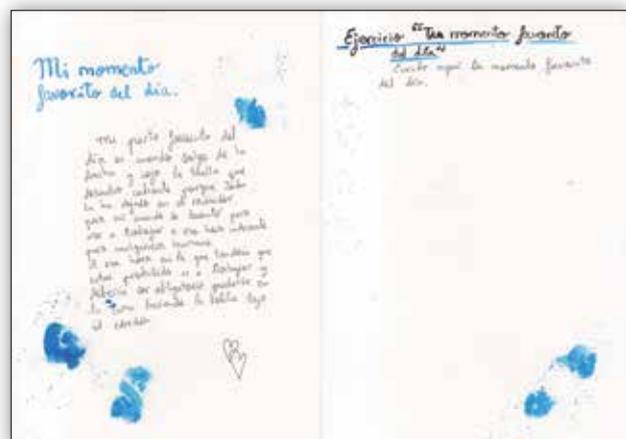

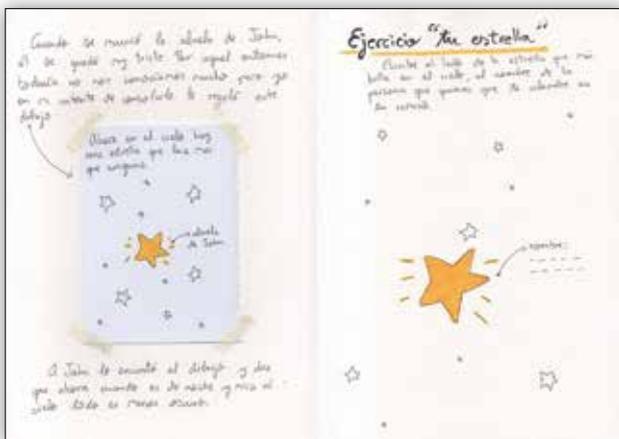

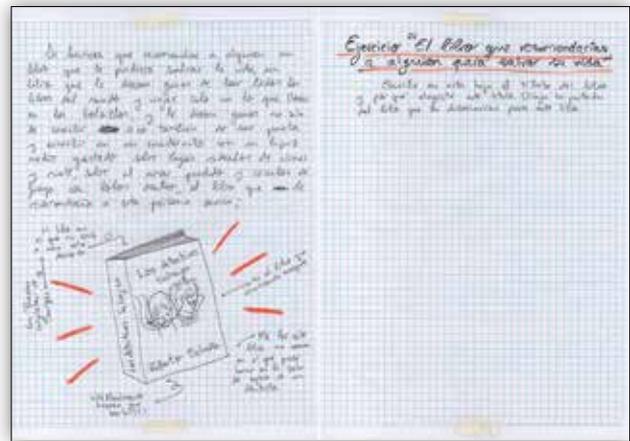

A little instruction manual for life by one of the most prominent young artists on the Spanish scene. In these inspiring pages filled with Aitor Saraiba's distinctive iconography, he suggests a series of creative activities that will help to change the way you see the world.

Who I am, the people I relate to, my most heartfelt wishes... art has always been a form of expression through which humanity has unleashed its emotions, one's 'true self'. Saraiba places his distinctive illustrated 'tool box' at our disposal to help us find ourselves and reveal the minor everyday poetry that lies beneath the trivialities of our everyday life.

LUNWERG | 14 x 20 CM | 140 PAGES | MAY 2016

Aitor Saraiba's work is focused on drawing but it has been used in different ways during his polyfaceted career: exhibitions, graphic novels, ceramics, actions and murals as well as photography and video. Since he was young he has also been a talented writer, as is shown in the graphic novels El hijo del legionario (2011) and Pajarillo (2012).

When Black Turns Pink is not a collection, but rather a wonderful collaboration conceived as an object-book in which 10 creators use drawing or painting to express their interior experience and experiment with eroticism in order to construct very suggestive fictions.

10 exclusive, unpublished illustrations in different styles using a wide range of techniques, accompanied by texts on the other side (stories, abstracts, poems and surrealism). Each artist –drawing on their distinct imaginative world– provides a detail, a moment or a snapshot to create a set of erotic or sexual scenes that tell a story. This is a deconstructed collaborative portrait in which each piece both stands on its own and combines with the others to make up a gorgeous, panoramic fresco.

Hello! My name is Esther, I'm an illustrator and, very recently, a mother too. I haven't studied medicine, I'm not a midwife, and I'm not an expert in the subject. I'm just a novice going through this for the first time, the kind you might find yourself talking to in a café.

In this book you'll find a few useful tips and others that will just make you laugh. I'm hoping to make 'maternity' seem less daunting.

Esther Gili (Madrid, 1981) is an illustrator. She has received numerous awards for her comics and illustrations such as the INJUVE and Young Creators of Madrid prizes.

A very relevant book that offers a humorous look on the difficulties of starting one's own business and balancing work and family life.

This isn't a manual for the self-employed or a guide for entrepreneurs. This is the true story of the every day life of a self-employed man and full-time father.

Like all self-employed people, the protagonist is a fighter, used to taking the slings and arrows of fortune. He's occasionally been accused of being a defeatist but really all self-employed people are. Yes, it's true, they make their own schedule but they never know what they're going to earn each month and even take advantage of their children's birthday parties to do their networking. Even so, as bad as the day might be going, as slow as the week may appear and as catastrophic as the next few months might seem, a real self-employed person never throws in the towel. They always see an opportunity and when they see what their salaried colleagues do in the name of 'stability' they know that their choice is worth it.

Xarly Rodríguez is a freelance designer and a full-time father. His career got a major boost in March 2014 when he founded Ilustre diario, a blog on which he shared the adventures and mishaps of his alter ego Lucreativo. The online success was such that soon Ilustre diario became a series of self-published books financed by the fans themselves.

An illustrated journey through the different stages of amazement that a new daddy has to go through in the 21st Century.

"I have something to tell you: you're going to be a daddy!" and you don't know whether to cry from joy or fear. Don't panic! This book, which is organized into different levels of experience that you'll have to deal with, will show you that you're not alone: as amazing as it might seem, this father has been through the same feelings of amazement and clumsiness that you're going through, or about to go through, and he'll share them with you here so as to make everything seem less daunting. He might even make you laugh.

The couple behind Papá 2.0's are Diego Limonchy and Gabriela Francisco. When they were twenty-five they discovered that they were going to have their first child and decided to share funny anecdotes about their pregnancy on social networks in the form of vignettes.

This book is an homage to all the mothers in the world and their superpowers.

Scientific studies show that you're the best mother in the world (although I already knew that). From now on, you're a certified Supermum!

Scientific studies have shown that mothers are exceptional human beings who, among many other things, can predict the future, make miraculous cold-curing soups and read their children's minds even when they're miles and miles away.

If you know a mother capable of doing three thousand things at once without losing patience or panicking, don't hesitate: give her this book to certify her as a SUPERMUM!

The book on the nightstand of a new generation of women.

The Bad Mothers Club was born of a blog created by mothers whose children don't like their cooking... They are imperfect mothers, they know it and they admit it. They want to put an end to the idea of the 'superwoman' that society tries to impose upon them: because you're not a good or bad mother, you're the mother you are!
